RISECCOLI WINES AT THE NEW YORK YACHT CLUB

(3rd December 2010)

On December 4th 2010, Benoit Romanelli-Faure, co-owner of Tenuta RISECCOLI, will be presenting wines of the RISECCOLI estate as part of a themed wine dinner organized by the New York Yacht Club in Newport, Rhode Island.

Every year, the wine committee at the New York Yacht Club (NYYC) organizes a dinner focused on a particular wine theme with a multi-course menu to match. The most recent themes have included an "Old & New World Wines" dinner showcasing wines from Shiraz varietals, one featuring Argentinian wines and another focused on wines from Bordeaux.

The dinners are always hosted at the Brown family house, which was donated to the NYYC back in 1982 and overlooks the port. Named Harbor Court by its builder, Mrs. John Nicholas Brown in 1906, the property has become a haven for sailing events as well as a gracious home for NYYC members and their guests.

In an effort to ensure the authenticity of this Italian evening, the Club's wine committee invited Benoit to speak about the RISECCOLI winery and present the featured wines: Chianti Classico and Sæculum (Super-Tuscan). The wines will be perfectly paired with dishes such as white truffle risotto (with fresh truffles directly sourced from Alba) and braised veal cheeks.

Benoit will be the only producer to attend the 60-person event and will be accompanied by Diego Meraviglia from Fourcade & Hecht Wine Selections, RISECCOLI's current main importer in the US and a 4th Level Certified Sommelier and Specialist of Wine. Diego also provided insights into the development of the full wine list and pairing recommendations. Tenuta RISECCOLI looks forward to assisting the evening's guests in better understanding the richness and value of Italian wines and the foods they accompany.
